A Millom woman has been placed on electronic tag after causing damage to a vehicle and harassment to its owner.

Amanda Cosgrove, of Cook Road, appeared at South Cumbria Magistrates' Court in Barrow on February 8th, where she pleaded guilty to two separate offences.

The 43-year-old admitted damaging a Citroen on Devonshire Road, Millom on September 20th 2017 and harassment on September 25th 2017.

Magistrates issued Cosgrove with an electronic tag and placed her on a curfew for ten weeks to run between the hours of 6pm and 6am.

A police spokesperson said:
