

Parents of toddler with severe brain damage ask for help to create a "baby bucket list"

Posted by Harvey Dale / 31 - January - 2019

The parents of an 18-month-old boy with severe brain damage are asking for help to create a "baby bucket list" to help him get the most out of life.

The 29-year-old from Barrow explained how the small family have had to quickly adapt to a new way of living since his birth and they want him to live life to the full but need help.

He isn't orally fed, so will be having a peg fitted in the near future, Casey is also at a constant choking risk, as he doesn't have an efficient swallow, gag or cough reflex.

Things, that will help Casey reach his full potential, such as, lights for his new room and lots of other little things to keep him entertained and hopefully, progress that little bit more.

Amy explained how even when pregnant with her son she and her 27-year-old husband Zack they were out walking regularly with his older brother.

"We spent a lot of time in NICU before we could come home to our new normal... we have had to learn how to live in a very different manner and have very quickly become medical parents."

https://www.gofundme.com/helping-casey-reach-his-goals?fbclid=IwAR1D9oJS3seIQISC4gdCkZZvs8_Obm_Ers9C-REIP8gDVxWC-ddG92IDBU4

